Inframon Learning and Knowledge

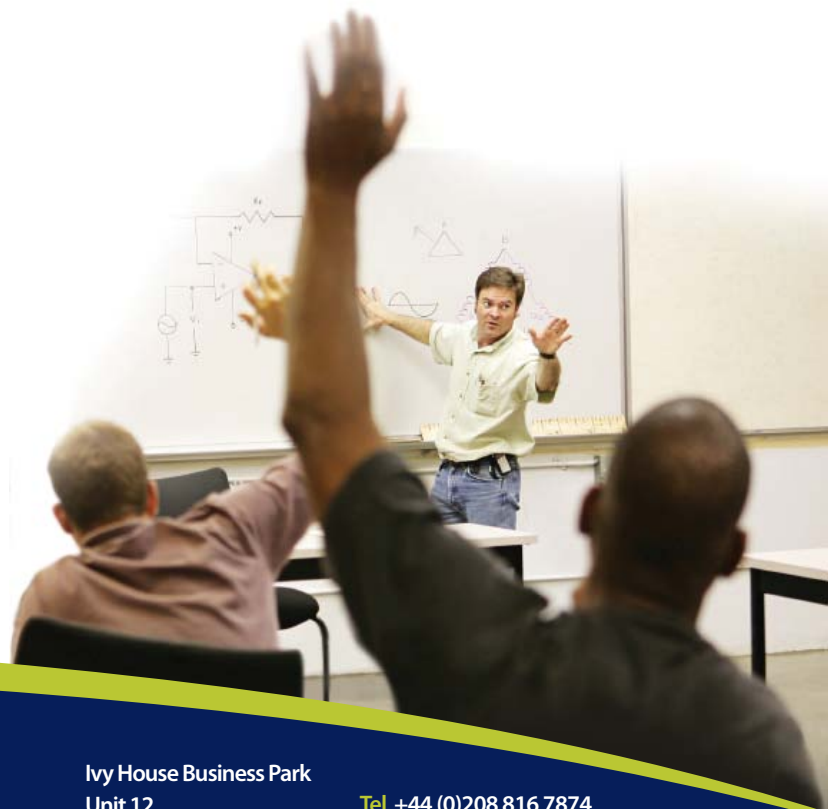

“Inframon Knowledge and Learning Services delivers packaged and bespoke training solutions either onsite, class room based or remotely.”

Our training solutions are both developed and delivered not by trainers, but by our highly skilled team of field consultants, giving you the benefit of both our deep subject matter expertise and vast experience of customer engagements.

Our packaged training solutions are developed in conjunction with Microsoft training guidelines to ensure our material is both relevant and of very high quality. The content in our training draws upon specific technical data directly from the Microsoft product team and from our own vast consulting experience. It brings together tips, tricks, knowledge and best practices based upon what works and what doesn't work for other customers.

Our bespoke training solutions allow you to work alongside our subject matter experts to design your own customised training package to meet the specific needs of your organisation. This modular approach to training means that you get the maximum value from your engagement with us whilst ensuring that your key personnel get the exact skills they require to carry out their roles.

We offer a range of options around delivery including classroom based training in one of our many partner training centres, on-site in your own training facility or remotely via Live Meeting. Our training can be run on classroom PC's or over the internet from our online Hyper-V training platform.
